

Taylor, Maxwell & Co Ltd

Slavery and human trafficking statement for the year ended 31 March 2019

This is the Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement of Taylor, Maxwell & Co Ltd (“Taylor Maxwell”). This statement is made pursuant to s.54(l) of the UK Modern Slavery Act 2015 (the “Act”).

In accordance with the Act this Statement is published on the Taylor Maxwell website www.taylormaxwell.co.uk and others and will be reviewed, updated and published annually.

Declaration:

Taylor Maxwell hereby confirms that it does not support or deal with any business that it knows or suspects to be involved in slavery or human trafficking and that our own business operations are and will continue to remain free of slavery and human trafficking.

1. Our structure, business and supply chains

Taylor Maxwell is an independent external facade solutions provider to the UK construction industry. Taylor, Maxwell & Co Ltd is part of the Taylor Maxwell Group (2017) Ltd group of companies.

Our portfolio of products includes facing brick, masonry and rainscreen cladding from a range of manufacturers based both in the UK and Europe.

Our business is not seasonal, and we employ no seasonal staff. Minimal use is made of agency staff to cover sickness and maternity leave only.

In the year ending 31 March 2019 our turnover was over £116 million and over 99.5% was sourced from UK or EU suppliers.

Most of our purchases come from the UK and it is considered by the board of directors that there is a very low risk of slavery or human trafficking being involved in their production.

Less than 0.5% of our purchases come from outside the EU. We recognise that some of these countries may present an increased risk of modern slavery in their supply chains.

2. Our Modern Slavery Policy

Attached at Appendix 1. Policies are approved at board level and are reviewed on an ongoing basis to ensure they are current. All employees are expected to adhere to the group policies at all times.

3. The Parts of the business and Supply Chain where there is a risk of slavery and human trafficking

We believe that non-EU suppliers may be at higher risk of having modern slavery in their supply chains. Therefore, for these suppliers, we ask that they confirm their agreement to our supplier code of conduct.

4. Effectiveness of our policies and procedures

We have and will continue to obtain written acceptance of the Supplier Code of Conduct from all non-EU suppliers identified as high-risk above. We will also confirm their policies with regard to combatting slavery and human trafficking.

In the future we will issue the latest Supplier Code of Conduct to all our suppliers in addition to any non-EU suppliers.

There were no reported instances of slavery or human trafficking made during the year ending 31 March 2019 for investigation.

5. Staff training and awareness

All staff are aware of our Modern Slavery Policy and this is available on our company intranet. All new staff are asked to read and confirm their understanding of this policy upon joining the business. It is our intention to provide further training to those staff involved in supply chain procurement in the coming financial year.

Taylor Maxwell Group (2017) LtdModern day slavery and human trafficking policy*Aims and objectives

Modern Day Slavery can be defined as situations of exploitation that a person cannot refuse or leave because of threats, violence, coercion, abuse of power or deception.

Taylor Maxwell Group (2017) Limited and its' subsidiaries is committed to driving out acts of modern-day slavery and human trafficking within its business including sub-contractors and agents and from within its supply chains.

The Group acknowledges its responsibility under the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and will ensure transparency within the Group and within suppliers of goods and services to the Group.

The Group will not support or deal with any business that it knows or suspects to be involved in slavery or human trafficking.

The Directors of Group operating companies shall take responsibility for implementing this policy statement.

As part of the Group's due diligence processes into slavery and human trafficking the supplier approval process will incorporate a review of the controls undertaken by those suppliers considered to be high risk.

Imported goods from sources from outside the UK and EU are potentially more at risk for slavery/human trafficking issues. The Directors of Group operating companies involved with such imports shall provide adequate management control and on-going monitoring to ensure that slavery and human trafficking is not taking place within these supply sources.

Any breach of this policy may lead to disciplinary action which in serious cases would include dismissal under our Disciplinary Policy.

The latest version of this policy is available on the Group intranet.

Taylor Maxwell Group (2017) Ltd

Supplier Code of Conduct

Taylor Maxwell Group (2017) Limited ("Taylor Maxwell", "we", "our" or "us") are aware of our responsibility toward our customers, employees and the community and expect all companies who do business with us to adhere to our supplier code of conduct.

It is the policy of Taylor Maxwell & Co Ltd to formally request that all our suppliers respect the principles of this Supplier Code of Conduct and adopt practices that are consistent with it.

Laws, ethical standards and Human Rights

The supplier shall comply with all laws applicable to its business.

The supplier should support the principles of the United Nations Global Compact, the UN Universal Declaration of Human Rights as well as the 1998 International Labour Organisation Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work, in accordance with national law and practice. In particular:

Child labour

Suppliers must follow the ILO recommendations of minimum age for employment and not use child labour in any part of their business.

Working conditions

Workers must have safe and healthy working conditions that meet or exceed applicable standards.

Payment and benefits must comply with any agreements relating to minimum wages and overtime payments.

Workers must be allowed the right of freedom of association and to collective bargaining subject to local laws.

Human trafficking, including forced labour or indenture labour

The supplier must not make use of forced or compulsory labour, not violate or impact on the human rights of others.

Suppliers must adhere to regulations prohibiting human trafficking and comply with all applicable local laws in the country within which they operate.

Compensation and working hours

The supplier shall comply with the respective national laws and regulations regarding working hours, wages and benefits.

Discrimination

Suppliers are expected to treat all people equally with respect and dignity. Creating equal opportunity to employees and applicants without discrimination.

Supplier must not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, disability, age, marriage, sexual orientation, gender, pregnancy and maternity or gender reassignment.

Bullying and Harassment

Suppliers must ensure their employees are afforded an environment free from physical, psychological and verbal harassment, or other abusive conduct.

Health and safety

Suppliers shall comply with all applicable environmental, health and workplace safety laws and regulations.

Providing a work environment that is safe to preserve the health of employees, and prevent accidents, injuries and work-related illnesses.

Business continuity planning

The supplier shall be prepared for any disruptions of its business (e.g. natural disasters, terrorism, software viruses, illness). Includes disaster plans to protect both employees and the environment as far as possible from the effects of possible disasters.

Improper payments/bribery

The supplier shall comply with international anti-bribery standards as stated in the United Nations' Global Compact and local anti-corruption and bribery laws including The Bribery Act 2010. In particular, the supplier may not offer services, gifts or benefits of employees in order to influence the employee's conduct in representing us.

Anti-Corruption Laws

Suppliers must comply with the anti-corruption laws, directives and regulations that govern operations in the countries in which they do business.

Competition and Anti-Trust

Suppliers must not fix prices or rig bids with their competitors. They must not exchange current, recent, or future pricing information with competitors. Suppliers must refrain from participating in a cartel.

Environment

The supplier shall comply with all applicable environmental laws, regulations and standards as well as implement an effective system to identify and eliminate potential hazards to the environment. We expect our suppliers to take climate protection appropriately into account in their own operations.

Whistleblowing Protection

Suppliers are expected to provide their employees with avenues for raising legal or ethical issues or concerns without fear of retaliation. Suppliers are also expected to act to prevent, detect, and correct any actions

Information Security

Suppliers must protect the confidential information of others, including personal information, from unauthorised access, destruction, use, modification and disclosure, through appropriate physical and electronic security procedures.

Suppliers must comply with applicable data privacy laws.

Business partner dialogue

The supplier shall communicate these principles to its direct suppliers and shall verify that they adhere to this Code of Conduct.

Any breach of the obligations stipulated in this supplier code of conduct is considered a material breach of contract by the supplier.
